14TH AUGUST 2022

ENTRANCE ANTIPHON

Turn your eyes, O God, our shield;
and look on the face of your anointed one;
one day within your courts
is better than a thousand elsewhere.

FIRST READING

A reading from the prophet Jeremiah

Jer 38: 4 - 6. 8 - 10

The king's leading men spoke to the king. 'Let Jeremiah be put to death: he is unquestionably disheartening the remaining soldiers in the city, and all the people too, by talking like this. The fellow does not have the welfare of this people at heart so much as its ruin.' 'He is in your hands as you know,' King Zedekiah answered 'for the king is powerless against you.' So they took Jeremiah and threw him into the well of Prince Malchiah in the Court of the Guard, letting him down with ropes. There was no water in the well, only mud, and into the mud Jeremiah sank.

Ebed-melech came out from the palace and spoke to the king. 'My lord king,' he said, 'these men have done a wicked thing by treating the prophet Jeremiah like this: they have thrown him into the well where he will die.' At this the king gave Ebed-melech the Cushite the following order: 'Take three men with you from here and pull the prophet Jeremiah out of the well before he dies.'

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

Ps 39

Response: Lord, come to my aid!

1. I waited, I waited for the Lord
and he stooped down to me;
he heard my cry. (R.)
2. He drew me from the deadly pit,
from the miry clay.
He set my feet upon a rock
and made my footsteps firm. (R.)
3. He put a new song into my mouth,
praise of our God.
Many shall see and fear
and shall trust in the Lord. (R.)
4. As for me, wretched and poor,
the Lord thinks of me.
You are my rescuer, my help,
O God, do not delay! (R.)

SECOND READING

A reading from the letter to the Hebrews

Heb 12: 1 - 4

With so many witnesses in a great cloud on every side of us, we too, then, should throw off everything that hinders us, especially the sin that clings so easily, and keep running steadily in the race we have started. Let us not lose sight of Jesus, who leads us in our faith and brings it to perfection: for the sake of the joy which was still in the future, he endured the cross, disregarding the shamefulness of it, and from now on has taken his place at the right of God's throne. Think of the way he stood such opposition from sinners and then you will not give up for want of courage. In the fight against sin, you have not yet had to keep fighting to the point of death.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION

Alleluia, alleluia!
My sheep listen to my
voice, says the Lord;
I know them, and they follow me.
Alleluia!

GOSPEL

A reading from the holy Gospel according to St Luke

Lk 12: 49 - 53

Jesus said to his disciples: 'I have come to bring fire to the earth, and how I wish it were blazing already! There is a baptism I must still receive, and how great is my distress till it is over!

'Do you suppose that I am here to bring peace on earth? No, I tell you, but rather division. For from now on a household of five will be divided: three against two and two against three; the father divided against the son, son against father, mother against daughter, daughter against mother, mother-in-law against daughter-in-law, daughter-in-law against mother-in-law.'

This is the Gospel of the Lord.

COMMENTARY

I have come to bring fire

A fierce fire in a eucalyptus forest bursts open the seed pods, cleanses the soil of smothering undergrowth, and returns nutrients to the soil to germinate the seeds. It is that sort of fire which Jesus brings to the earth.

So, at Pentecost, He sent His Holy Spirit ' . . . like tongues of fire', bursting the early disciples out of the protective shell of the 'Upper Room', allowing them to be germinated as seeds of the early Church. It is the same in every generation which has to ask: What personal, family or social situations provide a hard casing which must be cracked open? What is the smothering undergrowth which prevents our germination as fearless disciples?

Jesus himself felt smothered by the small-minded people of Nazareth to which He never returned. He warns that families and good friends can try to smother the spark He wishes to ignite.

We might pause for a moment to pray that the fiery Holy Spirit might enable us to become a stand of tall trees reaching for the Risen Son in all His glory.

Our Lady of the Assumption Prayer

Mary, Queen assumed into heaven,
I rejoice that after years of heroic martyrdom on earth, you have at last been taken to the throne prepared for you in heaven
by the Holy Trinity.

Lift my heart with you in the glory of your Assumption above the dreadful touch of sin and impurity. Teach me how small earth becomes when viewed from heaven.
Make me realize that death is the triumphant gate through which I shall pass to your Son, and that someday my body shall rejoin my soul in the unending bliss of heaven.

From this earth, over which I tread as a pilgrim, I look to you for help.
I ask for this favor: (Mention your request).

When my hour of death has come,
lead me safely to the presence of Jesus to enjoy the vision of my God for all eternity together with you.

Amen.

SVDP WINTER APPEAL

Jesus said "The Poor will always be with us", perhaps the Man from Galilee was issuing us a challenge, a challenge to look after the most vulnerable of our Community. With World Economies in free fall and together with our own National disasters of Fire, Drought and Floods the demand for the Charitable Dollar seems relentless.

The Communities of St Monica's willingly and continually meet this challenge as evidenced in your wonderful donations of $3,015 to our Winter Appeal which will be utilised to meet the needs of our most vulnerable.

Isn't that just your interpretation?

One of the delights of the worldwide fellowship that the Lord Jesus has created by his death and resurrection is to read the Bible with sisters and brothers from different cultures. Here, there is no Gentile or Jew, slave or free, Aussie or African, bogan or cool, but Christ is all and is in all. We may dance differently; we may not understand each other's language; yet we can enjoy a palpable unity. But there is also something unnerving about cross-cultural fellowship. For as we read the Bible together, we find ourselves understanding it differently. We read the same words, the same story, the same text. But what we see and how we understand it, depends on the cultural lenses we use to see the world. This can be exhilarating as we 'see' that there is more to the story than we have seen before. But it can also be unsettling: it raises difficult questions; questions like:

- Have my cultural lenses blinkered me from seeing the truth God has revealed?
- Is what I see in the text merely a small, insignificant part of the truth?
- Have I completely failed to understand what the text is about?

Although it can be unsettling, I think there is a solution. And God has already provided it in the Old Testament. In God's dealings with the nation of Israel (and the people connected to it), God created a distinct culture. Over a period of 2000 years he set about establishing, building and renovating a relationship with the descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. If culture is the ideas, customs, and social behaviour of a particular people or society, then it is clear Israel developed its own distinct culture during the period of her history covered by the Old Testament. And this culture was primarily shaped by God himself.

He redeemed Israel from slavery in Egypt and brought her to himself. He gave laws that regulated daily life in many aspects, both religiously and socially. He gave his people a home to inhabit where they could enjoy his bountiful provision. He sent prophets to correct them when they sought to create a different culture from the one God prescribed. If this is the case, then it should be clear that the primary culture we need to be concerned with is not our culture or other cultures from around the world but the culture God set up—the culture that forms the context of the Bible and Jesus. An example may help to explain the point. I was struck recently how the original Passover in Egypt contains the idea of substitutionary sacrifice as atonement for human sin. From one perspective, the killing of the Passover lamb was unnecessary—God had already demonstrated he was entirely competent to distinguish Israelites from Egyptians. But God made a huge deal of the Passover lamb, with detailed instructions about what, when, how, and what to do with the blood. Those instructions make it clear that, without the death of the lamb, the firstborn of Israel would have died under God's judgement—just like the Egyptian firstborns.

So God was creating a cultural symbol—an annual memorial that would enculturate the concepts into Israel's life. He was laying another stone in the foundation—developing a theme, that had already begun with Abraham's offering of his beloved Isaac, and which would keep coming on through the Day of Atonement. When we get to Jesus, we can see his death through this cultural lens. We aren't left to simply compare different interpretations. Nor are we left imprisoned by our own culture. To be enculturated in God's Old Testament culture is not an easy, instantaneous task. It takes thoughtful, extensive, intensive reading and meditation. And it can help to have friends from various cultures journey with us in the task. But it is a task that those who teach God's Word must undertake. And as we make progress in the task, our understanding of the Bible, especially of Jesus, will be built up and enriched. We will grow in confidence that we are seeing what God means us to see. And so, we will speak with greater confidence
